ABOUT ME

Info

Software Development student and a self-taught enthusiast. I define myself as a hardworking, responsible, and self-reliant developer.

I possess a Full Stack mindset and a growing interest in data analysis and Machine Learning models. I love learning, meeting new people, and thriving in multicultural environments. That is why I am in a constant search for international challenges that will test my initiative and prepare me for the future of technology.

My experience working in the hospitality sector during my breaks has shaped my professional character. It taught me how to manage complex interpersonal situations and stay composed under pressure. I bring this same resilience and proactive mindset to software development, ensuring I can handle tight deadlines and team collaboration effectively
